Remote Business

In remote areas, you can enjoy the finer things in life. Like lightning fast satellite Internet for your business.

If you run a small business or home office from a remote location, relying on local infrastructure for Internet is hardly adequate. You need quality broadband satellite Internet service designed specifically for commercial use. You need “your name here”—the fastest, most flexible, reliable and affordable satellite Internet connection to compete in today’s marketplace.

Reliable broadband satellite Internet, wherever you are.

The “your name here” system is designed to meet the unique challenges you face as a remote small business. With our Committed Information Rate (CIR), you can always count on consistent download and upload speeds to keep your business moving fast—even during peak usage times. Plus, whether you’re looking for video conferencing, VPN, streaming video, the ability to handle large amounts of data or to be completely mobile, “your name here” can design a VSAT system that’s right for you.

Business-grade equipment for your business needs.

From our multiple teleports on the ground to the VSAT dish and indoor modem at your location, every component of the “your name here” network is business-grade and can handle any environment. Plus, we maintain an inventory of the most commonly needed parts to minimize your downtime and maximize your productivity levels. We also offer expert 24/7 tech support to address your questions and to help diagnose and fix any problem. Talk about the finer things in life.
