Oil, Gas & Mining

The only thing headquarters hates more than a dry well is waiting to discover it's dry.

In the oil, gas and mining industries, productivity is everything. And when communication between the on-site crew and headquarters goes down, so do profits. That's why as more and more businesses take their energy explorations offshore and into extremely remote areas, they are counting on "your name here" to provide seamless, reliable, fixed and mobile satellite communications.

The fastest, most reliable broadband satellite Internet access available.

A VSAT solution from "your name here" provides unsurpassed high-speed, low-latency data transmission between geologists and subject-matter experts at headquarters and the operations at the remote location. With the ability to support streaming well data, VoIP, fax services, VPNs and a host of other applications, the "your name here" network is flexible enough to accommodate the needs of any company in the oil, gas and mining industry.

Mobile and fixed systems that meet your unique challenges.

With a mobile VSAT system from "your name here", you'll have consistent Internet communication anywhere, anytime, on-the-go. We can equip your fleet with mobile park-and-deploy equipment that not only endures constant redeployment, but also extreme conditions like high winds, freezing temperatures, ocean storms and intense heat.

Often the most cost-effective solution, a fixed system from "your name here" can stand up to years of wear-and-tear and repeated setup. Depending on your needs, we even offer training classes so members of your crew can become 2-way certified to perform installations.

Key benefits of a "your name here" VSAT system:

- Reliable Internet in the toughest environments
- Ultra low-latency data transmission
- Committed Information Rate (CIR) guarantees speed
- Rugged, business-grade equipment
- Fast, easy setup and breakdown
- Fully customizable
- 24/7 in-house tech support
